

PickleServe™ 21

Guaranteed to improve your game!

PickleServe™ 21 teaches strategy and serve training and can be an enjoyable game that one can play by oneself or with a partner.

For the Club Trainer/Professional

Best used with two players and two opposing targets, with each player calling out both the ball number being played and the cumulative score (print attached scoresheet). Players can alternate three balls at a time until 12 balls have been played.

The objective of PickleServe™ 21 is to improve the accuracy of your serve in order to win more points during the first three shots of your pickleball game.

Strategy Rationale

When warming up, probe your opponent's weakness. Normally, it is the backhand of the weakest player on your opponent's side. Your serves (and subsequent play) should target your opponent's weakness. Should they return your serve with a weak shot, either you or your partner will be in a better position to win the point.

Single Player PickleServe™ 21 Practice

We recommend using 12 balls to serve on each side. Place the PickleServe™ 21 target in the backhand corners of the serves you want to improve (likely your opponent's backhand sides). If you are practicing by yourself, try to hit points on the target until you have used a total of 12 balls. After each set of 12 balls, switch to the other backhand side for a total of 12. Then, practice serves to the forehand sides. Use your judgment to see if you hit a cumulative 21 points each try. If you have only one target, a pickleball partner can call out balls and cumulative scores as well as return your serves, or you can do so yourself.

Two PickleServe™ 21 Targets and Players

Try alternating serving three balls on each side of the court. If you have accumulated 21 points using 12 serves consistently on all four target positions, you can now turn the targets over to the smaller targets to make PickleServe™ 21 more challenging. Keep practicing until you feel confident about hitting your serves to the red target area. You now have a new weapon in your pickleball game!

Advanced Challenge

To make it more challenging, use only 10 balls to achieve a 21 score. You can orient the PickleServe™ 21 target in any one of four places on both the forehand and backhand sides, and you can switch to smaller targets on the reverse side of the target. Further, you can make up your own PickleServe™ 21 challenges as you develop the accuracy of your serve.

Serving Hint

To get the best angle for serving to a backhand, stand as close to the center line as possible without stepping outside or inside the baseline, then serve it straight up the center to your opponent's backhand (left-side serve). Likewise, on the right side of your opponent's side, stand as close as possible to the left-hand corner without stepping outside or inside the baseline. Then serve diagonally as deep as possible into the corner of your opponent's side of the court. Naturally, if your opponent stands too far to his or her left or right to protect the backhand by running around it to hit a forehand, you can always serve it straight up the opposite side of his or her service box.

Red Rectangular Targets

A large and small rectangular (5-point) target can be used to practice difficult side-court shots. These are placed on the far right or left sidelines from the kitchen line down. Getting points using these red targets is even more challenging and dependent on where your opponent is standing. You can fold the red targets into halves, quarters, or just about any size you want to create the ultimate target challenge.

Dinking Targets

The PickleServe™ 21 targets can also be placed in and around the kitchen line to practice targeting dinks. Naturally, having two targets is optimal for two players to practice with each other.

Equipment

If you wish to acquire the PickleServe™ 21 targets and a 20-ball pick-up tube for your own practice, please check with your club trainer/professional.

Tracking Your Progress

Keep track of your PickleServe™ score over time to measure your progress! Please feel free to make copies of the sample scoring format provided so that you can keep score.

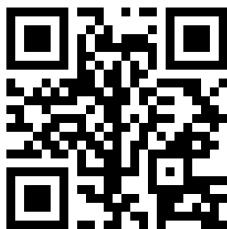

Rolling and Storage Note

When rolling the PickleServe™ 21 mat, always roll in the direction away from the red target on the target's long side. If curling is observed on the side closest to the server, you may lightly bend the target to straighten it or tuck it underneath so that it lies flat.

PickleServe™ 21 Serve Diagram using Rectangular Red Sideline Targets

PickleServe™ 21: Serve to a left-handed opponent: aim for the large 2-foot-wide upper sideline red #5 target. A difficult serve, but highly effective for a weak lefty backhand. Note: server is at the diagonal corner to serve at the best angle.

PickleServe™ 21: For a more challenging serve to a right-handed opponent: aim for the small 1.5 feet wide upper sideline red #5 target. A difficult serve, but highly effective for a weak righty backhand. Note: server is at the diagonal right corner to serve at the best angle.
